The Institute for Manufacturing Technology and Machine Tools (IFW) invites applications for the position of a Student Assistant (m/f/d) on the topic „Corrections in English“ (18 hours/month) to be set at the earliest possible date. The employment is based on 18 hours/month, which are divided up in consultation with the supervisor. The position is initially limited to 3 months. A longer period of employment is sought.

The advertised position offers the opportunity to gain initial insights into scientific work, exciting topics related to production systems and current trends in manufacturing technology, great practical relevance to studies and flexible working hours in the exam periods.

Tasks

The IFW is now looking for an assistant to proofread scientific documents in English, such as articles in specialist journals and presentations. The topics are mostly technical in nature, but technical knowledge is no requirement. Preferably native English skills and a conscientious way of working. Working hours are flexible and you can work from anywhere in the university.

Recruitment requirements

- Valid enrollment at a German university
- Very good knowledge in English, ideally on native speaker level
- Knowledge of scientific writing
- conscientious working method

Preference will be given to equally-qualified applicants with disabilities.
